Nevada is doing some of its streets.

A correspondent in an Exchange complains that the hot weather last week popped all the popcorn in his patch.

"My Lord," said the foreman of an Irish jury, when giving in his verdict, "we find the man who stole one mare not guilty."

The Butler School Board after two or three weeks debate have at last decided to use the Wentworth-Smith arithmetic in their schools this year. The question was one of great moment and the people are glad no doubt that it is settled.

Here is the way papers will write up weddings ten years hence: "The bride looked very well in a traveling dress, but all eyes were centered on the groom. He wore a dark suit which fitted his form perfectly and in his dainty gloved hand he carried a small rose. His curly hair was beautifully done and a delicate odor of hair oil of the best quality floated down the aisle as he passed. The young people will miss him now that he is married. He is loved by all for his many accomplishments, his tender grace and winning ways. The bride commands a good salary as bookkeeper and the groom will miss none of the luxuries to which he has been accustomed. A crowd of pretty men saw him off at the depot."—Ex.

Did you ever watch two women meet in a public place and kiss each other? The preliminaries are very interesting to the onlooker who is a student of human nature. Suppose now one has been away and the other comes down to the depot to meet her on her return. The one returning steps down from the platform of the coach and they see each other. Do they rush to a clinch with joyous abandon? Generally no. They advance cautiously each striving not to appear more overjoyed than the other. They near each other and clasp hands each looking into the others eyes and seeming to dread the initiative. Then one concedes a slight bend of the head and the other, who has been watching with strained attention for this sign clasps her in her arms and the deed is done. This process is subject to slight variations and the gradations employed in getting together sometimes come so close together as to be hardly perceptible but they are always there if you watch close enough.

The Village Catcher.

Behind the curtain willow tree
The village catcher waits
A name and a smile to be
With fingers that in know
Furnished about new moustache points
As big as a corner lot
His back to the sun and drink and eat
His face is black with sun
He sees the music from his head
And knows where to be
And when his finger and thumb
The heart from the breast show
He goes on Sunday to the park
And sits among the logs
Upon the bench with crumpled shirt
And hand, internal quiver
And when the music strikes
He makes his heart quiver
Singing, rejoicing, thundering
On through the forest he goes
Each tuning and each return
To the tune he loves
And put it in the other case
By means of a player's hands
Thanks, thanks to him, my worthy friend
For the lesson that he taught
To love your tongue to join the strain
When better times be taught
His air will be so much to be
As much, never or thought

No Monkeying With the Census.

Criticism of the President's course in turning over the job of taking the national census to Republican supervisors—excepting as he may recognize the claims of the white Democrat in some of the black belt States—must greatly fall under the straightforward declarations contained in his letter to Secretary Nagel, issued from Beverly on Saturday.

There can be no mistaking the emphasis; the imperative, directions of that public document. It breathes sincerity in every line and is clear and fair warning that no partisanship is to be tolerated in the taking of the census.

Language such as this is neither to be misconstrued nor evaded. "I, therefore, order that in the preparations of regulations for the taking of the census, you and the Director of the Census embody therein a provision that any supervisor or enumerator who uses his influence with his subordinates or colleagues to assist any party, or any candidate, in a primary or general election, or who takes any part other than merely casting his vote in politics, national, State or local, either by service upon a political committee by public addresses, by the solicitation of votes or otherwise, shall at once be dismissed from the service."

"I wish to make this regulation as broad as possible, and wish it enforced without exception. It is of the highest importance that the census should be taken by men having only the single purpose of reaching a just and right result, and that the large amount of money to be expended in the employment of so vast a machine as the census shall not be made to serve the political purposes of anyone."

To the victors belong the spoils. The President believes largely in this maxim. He has shown his faith by his works in turning over to Republican partisans lucrative positions which the taking of the census will provide. This is all right. We know of no reason why a competent Republican cannot supervise census labors as well as a competent Democrat, or Prohibitionist, or Socialist. And the former possesses best claim to the job.

But the President abruptly and decisively halts his partisan appointees at the door of their work. "You get your pay," he tells them, "but you are working not for a party but for the people. Do not forget it."

It is unlikely that any supervisor will be able to read the letter to Secretary Nagel and draw therefrom any but a correct conclusion.

The President means business. —St. Louis Times.

Change Our Paper Money.

A proposal to make smaller the size of our paper money is receiving favorable consideration at the hands of Sec'y of State McVeigh and along with this change new designs are to be made in a way that will give to every note of the same denomination the same portrait. The size of the bills will be near to that of French paper money, or about a quarter smaller. Director Ralston of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has reported that he has found a chemical solution or wash in which old and dirty bills can be made almost as good and quite as clean as new. Economy is the main point in both these proposed plans of currency.

Paul Delamater was called to Butler last week to repair an automobile belonging to Maj. Crowell of that city. They made a trip to Nevada in the machine.

Governor Hadley.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of the Democratic press to try and rake up something that will reflect upon the present state administration although up to the present time they have had little success. This is not strange as Gov. Hadley has lived up to his promises and bids fair to go on record as the best and most consistent Governor that the state has ever known. If he had done no more than straighten up things in Kansas City, and St. Louis the people would rise and call him blessed. He has acted square and honest and does the great party which elected him credit.

Two elections have been held since Governor Hadley became governor, one in St. Louis and one in Kansas City—and they were the first elections held in either city in many years where there was no charge of fraud or complicity by either side. This result was accomplished by Gov. Hadley advising the police and election commissioners that he would hold them responsible for any thing short of an honest election. How strange it seems to have an election in St. Louis without outrages by Butler "Indians" and an election in Kansas City without frauds by Shannon's "Rabbits." The people of these cities have come into a new order of things, and it has been so simply and quietly effected that they have hardly realized what has happened.

Game Laws.

John T. Harper, Deputy Game Warden for the State of Missouri was in Rich Hill last week and while here called at the Tribune office and gave some important facts connected with the game laws which are now in force.

Section 26 provides that all sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, marshals, constables and all other peace officers are declared to be ex-officio game and fish commissioners.

Any person may fish in any stream in the state with hook and line, trot line and gig and spear at any time.

Seining or netting fish is prohibited in any running stream in this state at any time, except in the Mississippi and Missouri under certain restrictions. Sec. 31 is very plain on this matter and should be carefully studied by anyone desiring to take any fish.

Every person must have a license to hunt. This license should be carried by the holder of the license at all times when hunting as any warden or peace officer may demand to see it at any time. The license fee is one dollar for residents for the Co. in which the person resides and permits the holder to hunt in his county and any county adjoining his county. A license to hunt in any county in the state is five dollars for resident and twenty five dollars for non residents.

It will be the policy of the game warden and his deputies to enforce the law and to see that the peace officers do their duty in seeing that the law is enforced.

Woman's Friend

Nearly all women suffer at times from female ailments. Some women suffer more acutely and more constantly than others. But whether you have little pain or whether you suffer intensely, you should take Wine of Cardui and get relief.

Cardui is a safe, natural medicine, for women, prepared scientifically from harmless vegetable ingredients. It acts easily on the female organs and gives strength and tone to the whole system.

TAKE CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Verna Wallace, of Sanger, Tex., tried Cardui. She writes: "Cardui has done more for me than I can describe. Last spring I was taken with female inflammation and consulted a doctor, but to no avail, so I took Cardui, and inside of three days, I was able to do my housework. Since then my trouble has never returned." Try it.

Ugly Row at Amoret.

Young Girl's Infatuation for Worthless Young Man Leads to Much Trouble.

Prosecuting Attorney Dawson and sheriff Bullock were called to Amoret Wednesday morning upon account of the incidents of an ugly row there which grew out of the infatuation of a young girl for a young man who has been about town for some months.

Thomas Kennedy, a young man who is said to have been dishonorably discharged from the navy last winter, came to Amoret and was stopping at the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. Chas. Powers. The sixteen year old daughter of N. G. Schauers, a leading merchant of Amoret, became infatuated with Kennedy and several weeks ago attempted to run off with him to Kansas City. They were caught and the girl taken off the train a short distance up the road. Kennedy promised, if not prosecuted for attempting to entice the girl away from home, to leave. He returned, however, and has been hiding about the town dodging Mr. Schauers and his brother-in-law. Tuesday his presence in the community was discovered by them and a warrant for his arrest issued. Constable Robbins and Will Noble started to serve it. At the same time Mr. Schauers and Powers started on the same mission. They found him first and when the constable arrived and took his prisoner away from them he was the worst whipped man the township ever contained.

Prosecuting Attorney Dawson filed a charge of vagrancy against Kennedy upon which he was tried before Justice Lockett and given twenty days in jail. He was brought to Butler and left with the Sheriff. He will bear the marks of his punishment for some time to come. Mr. Dawson also filed information against Dr. Powers and Mr. Schauers for their action in taking the law into their own hands and whipping Kennedy.

The case has created much stir in the Amoret section. Dr. Powers and Mr. Schauers are both well known citizens of the county. The young girl who became so infatuated is both pretty and clever, while Kennedy is said to have been neither prepossessing nor attractive even before his brother-in-law and the girl's father finished their interview with him.—Butler Democrat, Aug 17.
